FOREIGN NEWS!

By the arrival of the schooner Florence, Captain Avery, in 19 days from San Francisco, we received a small mail from the East. San Francisco dates to January 21; telegraphed Atlantic dates to January 1, and do. European dates to January 13. Our last previous dates were to January 10.

New York, January 11. The steamer Creole, from New Orleans the 3d, reports having met several gunboats, bound up the river. The purser of the Creole reports that the gunboat Clifton arrived at the Southwest Pass on the evening of the 3d, with the news of the rebels having made an attack, by land and water, on the Federal forces at Galveston, early on the morning of the 1st. Our gunboats were attacked by five rebel steamers, protected by double rows of cotton bales. Although our troops were armed with rifles and muskets, the Harriet Lane was captured by boarding after about all the officers, including Capt. Wainwright, and the crew of 130, all told, were killed by musketry from the rebel steamers. The informant states that but I or 2 officers and "Tell Lea & Perrins 10 or 15 of the crew escaped death. The gunhat their Sauce is highly boats Clifton and Owasso were engaged, but esesteemed in India, and is, caped, the former losing no men, and having only one wounded. The Owasso had I killed and 13 palateable as well as the wounded. Two barges, loaded with coal, fell into nost wholesome Sauce the hands of the enemy. The troops which had been sent there to occupy Galveston did not arrive until the place had been evacuated, and did not disembark. All the fleet are now on their way back to New Orleans. The rebel force is estimated at about 5,000, under Magrader. Our loss is variously estimated at 150 to 260 killed, and 200 taken prisoners. The navy suffered the most. It is thought the rebel loss is severe, as our guns were firing grape and cannister continually in their midst. The rebels had several batteries on shore. Our forces on shore were on one of the long wharves, and, it is said, repulsed two rebel charges before they surrendered.

Cairo, 10, P. M , January 11. By the arrival of the Belle of Memphis to-night, from the mouth of the Yazoo River, we have authentic accounts of the fight at Vicksburg. Sherman's repulse was complete. The entire force under the command of Gen. McClernand re-embarked on Saturday on transports, closely pressed by the rebels' advance, which, on coming within range of our gunboats, were driven back with severe loss. At the last accounts, the entire fleet of transports, with the troops, had arrived at Island No. 82, on their way to Napoleon, Ark. Through rumors, we learn that their advance had an engagement, which was less general than at first reported. The principal fighting was done by the center under Generals Smith and Blair. As near as could be ascertained, our loss was 600 killed. 1500 wounded, and 1000 missing.

Nothing definite from Banks thus far. At Newbern, N. C., on Wednesday last, there were 55 Yankee transports with forces there, including the commands of three Major-Generals, which gives a total force of 55,000 at least. There is also a formidable fleet at Beaufort, N. C. Memphis, January 11.

Gen. Sherman's official report places our loss at Vicksburg at 1,340 killed and wounded, and 400 lost by being captured. The Jackson Appeal says the rebel loss was 100 killed, wounded and miss-Washington, January 12. In the House, E. Wilson, of Iowa, offered a joint resolution that the Emancipation Proclamation is Passed, 66 to 59.

Stevens introduced a bill setting forth that as the terms of the enlistment of soldiers will soon expire, and that as it is expedient to have soldiers whose constitutions peculiarly fit them for a southern campaign: therefore be it enacted, that the President shall be authorized to require, raise, organize and equip 150,000 persons of color, of African descent, for five years, as artillery, infantry and cavalry, who shall receive $5 a month, with rations, etc.; one half to be retained for the use of their families; and in case of their having no families, the money to be retained for them until the expiration of their term of service. The commissioned officers to be either white or black. Recruiting stations to be established either North or

Headquarters Army of the Potomac, Jan. 15. Richmond papers of this morning have come to hand. The most important feature in them is Jeff. Davis' Message. After briefly referring to the campaign since his last message, he says that the anticipations which had entered into the contest have now ripened into conviction, which is not only shared with us by the common opinion of neutral nations, but is evidently forcing itself upon our enemies themselves, that the advent of peace will be hailed with joy. Our desire for it has never been concealed; but earnest as has been our wish for peace, and great as have been our sacrifices and sufferings during the war, the determination of this people has with each succeeding month become more unalterably fixed to endure any sufferings during the war, the determination of this people has with each succeeding month become more unalterably fixed to endure any sufferings and continued sacrifices, however prolonged, until their right to self-government and the sovereignty and independence of the States shall have been triumphantly vindicated and established. He then refers to history and the days when four States now forming a portion of the Confederacy were recognized as independent sovereignties by the two great maritime powers of Europe in 1783. He reviews the history of the Confederation and the ultimate re-union of the States, and asserts that the new Confederates were members of the Umon, with a right, as independent sovereignties, to secede when in their judgment their safety and honor required such a step. He speaks of the early determination of England, France and other European powers to confine themselves to the self-evident fact, and of the existence of strict neutrality during the progress of the war; but draws from this conclusion that their course of action was but an actual decision against the South and in favor of Union, at some time tending to prolong hostilities. He complains of European injustice in other matters, citing the treaty with the United States for the abolishment of privateering, thus preventing the Confederates from disposing in foreign ports of prizes which their privateers captured. This, he thinks, was a direct shaft aimed at the success of the Confederacy. Notwithstanding the repeated remonstrances by the Confederacy to neutral European Governments, and their own admission as to the insufficiency of the Federal blockade, neutral Europe has received these remonthe wrong inflicted in its commerce by the United

In relation to the Emancipation Proclamation he says that he may well leave it to the instincts of which the beneficent Crea plosion occurred before the boat containing Com. | tor has imparted in the breasts of our fellow-men Renshaw, Lieut. Our land force sphere, are doomed to extermination; while, at the same time, they are encouraged to attempt the general assassination of their masters, by insidious recommendations to abstain from violence, unless in necessary self-defense. Our own detestation of those who have attempted this most execrable massacre is recorded in the history of the guilty man who is tinctured with a profound sentiment for impotent rage, which this discloses. So far as regards the acts of this Government on such cruminals as may attempt its execution, I confine myself to informing you that I shall, unless in your wisdom you deem some other course more expedient, deliver to the State authorities all commissioned officers of the United States who may hereafter be captured by our forces in any of the States embodied in the (Lincoln's) Proclamation, that they may be dealt with in accordance with the laws of those States provided for the punishment of criminals engaged in exciting servile insurrection. In its political aspect this measure possesses great significance, and to it, in this light, I would invite your attention. It affords to our people the complete, crowning proof of the true nature of the designs of the party which elevated to power the present occupant of the Presidential chair at Washington, and which sought to conceal its purposes by the perfidious use of the most solemn and repeated pledges. Speaking of the financial condition of the Confederacy, he says that it is true that at the close of the war our debt will be large, but it will be due to our own people, and neither interest nor capital will be exported to distant countries, impoverishing ours for their benefit.
